

Options & Choices

'We have known and worked with John Mills for over 20 years; our evolving relationship is now not only with John but with his business, Eluvia Sydney, the team that supports him.

My wife and I have always worked together on our finances and planning for our future. As our family has grown and become more independent, our circumstances have changed and John has supported and advised us through all of these life and family stages.

It is very important for us to have options and choices. John's expertise, knowledge and foresight have always allowed this. Although I keep an eye on the market and the global economy, John's experience and sound advice have empowered us to make important, quality decisions in a timely manner.

When not available for any reason the Eluvia team of professionals share John's business philosophy, and provide honest, open communication to ensure efficiency, accuracy and optimal results.

John meets with us a couple of times per year, or as we require. He is only ever a phone call away, when we need to discuss strategy or possible changes to our portfolio.

The strong inter-personal skills and ability to connect with people are testament to both John and the entire Eluvia Sydney practice, with whom some of my current team/staff are also supported by.

I would have no hesitation in recommending John and his team at Eluvia Sydney, to discuss Superannuation and other financial matters.'
